The course

“Aircraft wet leasing” (ACMI) is a one-day intensive, thoroughly enjoyable and motivational training course that delivers essential knowledge on how to be successful in Aircraft wet leasing.

“Aircraft Wet Leasing” (ACMI) takes the perspective both of the lessor and the lessee!

You are most likely working for an airline wet lease or charter department that wet leases aircraft in and out, or a brokerage firm involved in ACMI deals. Perhaps you are considering a career move to such an exciting environment! Are you working for a department that email addresses of the type acmi@ or charter@ are in use? There you are! This course is for you!

The syllabus

“Aircraft Wet Leasing” (ACMI) is an essential course both for experienced commercial executives irrespective of their seniority level and newcomers.

The course is straightforward, pleasant and information-rich!

We will teach you how to:

- » What ACMI is, beyond the acronyms, when and what is sold and bought, variations in the offerings and legal barriers in plain English for salespeople!
- » price ACMI deals by involving other departments within the airline. Wet leasing is a team project!
- » quickly sell your aircraft under wet lease (ACMI) conditions,
- » deal with complex ACMI projects.
- » to agree (as a lessee) within your organisation on the exact requirements for an ACMI aircraft, how to incorporate them in your request for proposals and how to allow for contingencies.
- » add or perceive value in a wet lease deal and avoid selling or buying purely on price
- » to prepare read understand and negotiate ACMI contracts

- » assess the financial impact on the lessee and lessor regarding revenue, costs and the impact on cash-flow.
- » calculate the real cost of an ACMI, which is not the dollars per block hour and the crew expenses only!
- » qualify lessees and lessors and how not to lose your money in a wet lease deal.
- » project manage ACMI deals and involve the various entities within the airline (an approach tailored to both lessees and lessors)

During the course, we touch upon commercial, financial, operational and legal aspects that should concern commercial acmi and or charter executives.

By the end of this exciting one-day course lessors will be able to sell more ACMI deals, to more qualified customers, receive their expected revenue and repeat business.

Lessees will be able to draft better requests for proposals, assess the operational and commercial viability of the responses, and ensure that they are dealing with qualified lessors that deliver on their promise. Ultimately lessees should be able to receive wet-leased aircraft that are operationally and commercially fit for the desired operation through an expected financial deal.

Together with the participants we summarise the course and discuss action plans for their airline accounts. The participants will receive a certificate of completion and a course manual that contains course notes, templates and a project management methodology. Each participant is entitled to a half an hour free telephone consultation.
